

25 Ways to Add Character to Dinner Parties

- Brie cheeses with real pansies impressed in them make great table adornments.
- Ice bowls with flowers imbedded make spectacular discussion pieces.
- Fruits dipped in sugar also make great conversation pieces.
- For a baby shower use rattles, teething rings, or large baby pins for napkin holders.
- Use toy cars with names written on them for a child's party.
- Helium Balloons with names written on them tied to the back of each chair.
- Curled ribbon and confetti make a fun table!
- Cut the tops out of fruits and use as candleholders.
- Fill different sized glass jars with sand and stick a candle in it.
- Dim the lights and add soft background music.
- Write guests names on a leaf with a metallic paint pen for place cards.
- Use flowerpots turned upside down with inverted saucers on top for instant candleholders.
- Use cookie cutters as napkin rings.
- String cranberry beads, cranberries, peanuts, and bells on a wire and make into a circle for instant napkin rings.
- Paper or fabric dollies make great placemats.
- Votive candles wrapped in parchment paper with guests name written on it make for great place settings.

- Disposable cameras on the table ensure an evening you will never forget.
- Large Manicotti makes great Italian napkin rings.
- Small cowbells with names written on them can make great place settings.
- Scatter glass beads across the table with candles and the light will shine evenly.
- Bracelets used as napkin rings are a great tea party addition.
- Place a small-planted flower on each person place and that will double as a favor.
- Fill small baskets with candies and that will also double as a party favor.
- Small picture frames with your guests picture in it make great place settings.
- Place little wrapped gifts on each plate with the guests name.

Mabel White

